

3-2-1

3-2-1 is a strategy that is most often used with nonfiction texts, though it also works with most fiction texts. After reading the text, students write down three things they found out, two things they found interesting, and one question they still have. Below is an example for Let It Begin Here! Lexington and Concord by Dennis Brindell Fradin.

3	3 things I found out <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Paul Revere warned American colonists that the British soldiers were coming.2. The Battles at Lexington and Concord were the first of the American Revolution.3. The War lasted for eight years.
2	2 interesting things I read <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. More than 300 British died in these battles.2. Samuel Whittamore was 78 years old and survived the battle and lived to be 96.
1	1 question I still have <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. What other battles were there in the war?
